To whom it may concern:

On behalf of the entire THG Investments development team, we would like to highly recommend Williams-Brown, Inc. (WBI) for your construction service needs. I have personally had the opportunity to work alongside Jeremy Brown and Chad Williams and their organization over the last 12 years and can attest to their high standards and professionalism.

THG Investments is always pleased about the thought of partnering with WBI on projects of any size throughout the Southeastern United States and continue to be grateful with the quality of their finished work. In fact, we consider WBI as an on-going strategic partner with all of our growing project work. WBI brings a proven process, vast market knowledge, and experience that clearly positions them as our construction partner and vendor of choice.

As we move toward the next generation of healthcare; hospitals systems, clinically integrated networks, and large physician groups are faced with on-going and challenging issues. WBI understands healthcare and its' new delivery model and this is why time and time again we choose to partner with WBI.

Thank you for the opportunity to provide feedback on WBI's organizational and leadership strengths. THG Investments sees WBI as a leader in the Pensacola construction market. We thank them for the value they bring to the worksite and the whole community. We certainly look forward to partnering with them on future projects.

In closing, I strongly recommend WBI for your future construction needs. My contact information is listed below and I welcome the opportunity to speaking with you directly if you so desire.

Sincerely,
